

Facebook Privacy

John Sobrero

<http://dvmug.org/blog/?p=12263>

You can RSVP on the Facebook meeting page, <https://goo.gl/Pake5s>

How to download your Facebook data

What exactly does Facebook know about you based on your profile?

Read more here

<https://www.macworld.com/article/3265696/software-social/how-to-download-your-facebook-data.html>

With all the news about Facebook recently, you might be wondering, what exactly does Facebook know about me from my profile? Sure, you can peruse your profile online, but that doesn't tell the whole story. One way to see what Facebook has on you is to download your Facebook data. The ability to download your Facebook data isn't really new, but not many users know that you can do it. It only takes a few minutes; how long depends on how big your data files are. Here are the steps to download your Facebook data.

Facebook, Privacy, and You: The Ultimate Guide

Don't trust Facebook but have to use it? Here's how to keep your information — and that of your friends — safe and sound.

Read more here

<https://www.imore.com/facebook-privacy-guide>

Facebook is a behemoth of information. It's the company's business model (predicated on advertising and third-party integrations), and it's not stopping anytime soon.

If you object to your data being used in this manner, you can always delete Facebook, but for many people that's not a realistic path — Facebook and its Single Sign-On controls are so integrated into people's lives at this point that it's nigh-impossible for some to extricate from the platform.

Instead, consider using Facebook's built-in privacy controls and settings to control your sharing — and give away only the information that you want to have out on the web.

How to spot fake social media posts & photos before sharing

How to download a copy of your Facebook data

How to lie to Facebook

How to adjust your privacy settings on Facebook

How to stop Facebook from tracking your location
How to stop Facebook from accessing your microphone
How to keep Instagram from scraping your data
How to restrict data collection for third-party apps
How to prevent friends' apps from getting your data
How to opt out of Facebook's data brokers
How to remove your Facebook data without deleting your account
How to lock down social media for your kids